

Anonymous Anonymous

Aquaculture brings several benefits to rural coastal communities, namely stable jobs, access to food, etc. With Cooke switching their cultured species to rainbow trout, and the fact that the rainbow trout are triploid fish, the risk of affecting wild stocks is extremely low. Therefore, Cooke Aquaculture should be permitted to continue their operations in Washington State provided they use triploid rainbow trout.