

Sarah MacDougall

Fish pens create ecological harm. Period. Changing the species of the fish seems irrelevant. I ache for our oceans and for all the beings who depend on it for life including humans. We already have problems with cleaning up the waters and do not need another source of water pollution and waste created by concentrated numbers of fish in pens. May we do the right thing for our environment rather than give in to economic gain. Thank you for reading my comment.