

K Green

I remember when the Spokane River was terribly dirty and toxic. There is no reason that we should go backwards on the progress that has been made, particularly with something as unhealthy and stealthy as PCB levels. I think even considering a variance is insane.