

Paul Buehrens

The benefits here accrue largely to Cooke, and the risks accrue to the environment, and may be largely externalized to the taxpayers. There are better ways. We should be focussed on improving the environment for ALL species, not adding another risk.