

Polly Derr

Farmed fish lack the nutritional value and flavor of naturally grown fish in the wild. They also have a much higher fat content than normal. It is certainly not advisable to put farm pens anywhere there is an even remote chance that the farmed fish or their nutrients could infiltrate our fish grown naturally in local rivers or the Salish Sea anywhere! To experience another "oops" could change our sea life forever!