

Sandra Butterfield

The science is clear on net pens in Puget Sound. They do not belong here. Removing them is the answer to increasing the health of native salmon species and saving Salish Sea resident Orca pods.