

Joseph Hiss

Whatever you do to reduce nutrients, please consider expected population growth, increases in sewage load, sea level rise, temperature and rainfall change, and ocean acidification, all at the finest scale possible, since these data will vary somewhat. Remember that climate change is the overriding concern in all this.