As a New Yorker, I live near a lot of oceans and bays and the Long Island Sound. The water was really dirty, devoid of life when I moved here in the 1970's but over the years, NY made a remarkable change to the quality of the water and now the coastlines are clean, fish and crabs and birds and all sorts of wildlife have returned and it is just wonderful. Oysters are helping too, as a recent addition.....DO NOT LET THE CRUISE INDUSTRY FOUL YOUR WATER, OIL IN THE WATER KILLS EVERYTHING & THEY WILL JUST SAIL AWAY.....DO NOT ALLOW SCRUBBERS IN YOUR WATERS. The cruise industry does not care about the your clean water, when it is all fouled, they will just find another bay to ruin.....don' t let them ruin your water!!!!
