

Aaron Miller

We should be good stewards of our planet, its environment and its inhabitants. This means respecting and protecting all species and the places they live. One way we can do this is to ban scrubbers. All scrubbers do is convert harmful exhaust into harmful water pollution, and this is poisoning Puget Sound. Let's give the cruise industry the opportunity to prove they want to be better and have them stop poisoning our waters. We, and our marine life, deserve better.