

Thomas Simon

In high traffic inlets like Puget Sound, the build up of scrubber dumping has serious and awful implications on endangered species like orcas, killer whales - it is killing these endangered mammals.

You must ban scrubber dumping now.

This is crucial for the health and welfare of the Puget Sound ecosystem and all who live in it.