

Richard Van Aken

The oceans are in serious trouble adding toxic waste water from cruise ships whose pollution from burning fossil fuels is a big part of the oceans problems adding waste water makes no sense. If these cruise lines cannot operate in ways less impactful on the ocean environment then their operations should be curtailed