

Bridget Irons

The plight of orcas is yet another reminder of our short-sighted behavior which is leading us down a destructive path, and dragging so many animals along with us. Ban scrubbers from Puget Sound. We must stop acting as if we're the only species on the planet. We're not. Please remember that more than ever animals are a test of our character. How we treat them defines us. We must do much better. What happens to them matters to them.