

Susan Kay Anderson

Absolutely zero wastewater/brown water from cruise ships should be released into the ocean, and special sanitation complexes need to be built and used by the cruise companies and regulated by the government on land. All ocean waters need to be protected and respected and cruise ships need to do their part or be shut down.