It seems as if we humans are mostly incapable of realizing the serious damage our messy, cheesy, profit-making, callous and slovenly practices inflict upon the other species who have every right to share the Earth with us -- and every right to live in clean, unpolluted, safe ecosystems. Cruise ships invade their territory and despoil it daily by dumping human-engendered effluvia where they live, breed, eat, and increasingly decline in numbers. We are the filthiest beings in the world, and we have got to change!
