

Dorothea Leicher

My husband and I cruise on a sailboat and for that reason the continued health of the oceans is very important to us (and we just spent half a season to upgrade the waste management systems on our boat) .

After reviewing the operations of scrubbers I cannot avoid the conclusion that especially in busy areas they will lead to damaging pollution of the waters. I therefore recommend that they should be banned.