

Jennie Kristel

I cannot imagine that this has not been done before. Our oceans are our lives. Without them we cannot survive. When will people learn we are no different from any other animal? The oceans are our living breathing lungs and we cannot survive without this diversity. Unless they are protected fully, the human race is doomed.