

Margaret Weimer

Cruise ships should deal with their garbage within the bowels of the ship. They should manage this in various organic ways. This garbage should not be dumped all over ocean life which already bears heavy burdens from humans. By pre-arrangement it should be taken by various port cities.