

Sean Casey

I think common sense would lean towards not allowing waste to be dumped in the Puget Sound. The protection of all living things is too important and this waste is the opposite of protection.