

Michael Symonds

These ships cause great environmental damage, and Washington state should not encourage these destructive practices and damage the waters that give life to many important creatures. Our wildlife is part of our state's appeal.