

Karen Macleod

Oil companies any company should never have the right to cause harm to our land, air, or water just because they have money, because it's easy. If they have the money to send people to try to say they have the right to then they have the money to clean up the mess they are making and have made already. Washington state makes a lot of income from tourists coming to see its wildlife allowing this will end this income. People come to see your states wonder not oil and trash.