

Donna Williams

When your children and grand children ask how you voted, what are you going to say? Taking care of the environment is taking care for future generation.