

Jean Mixter

It is high time that cruise ships figure out a system in which they can recycle their own waste contaminants rather than destroy the ecosystem. They make enough money in profits so they can invest in a system, and these systems do exist so there is NO excuse. I am tired of all these pipelines and groups that want to dump their garbage in our waters and lands.