

Claire Alkire

Surely anyone can see there's no real merit in trading air pollution for water pollution! Both are destructive to our environment. Both damage (or end) the lives of living creatures. Cruise companies must find other ways to filter their garbage without dumping it into the waters upon which all life depends!