

Bob Lee

Fewer and fewer people have the knowledge on how to successfully raise animals. The last thing this state needs is to create obstacles to people growing their own chickens, horses, cattle, sheep or other farm animals. Ecology does not have statutory authority to establish regulations on these small operations.