

Thomas Biladeau

Installation of fish passage at Chief Joseph and Grand Coulee Dam should be a requirement for 401 certification. Water quality and the beneficial uses of the river have been negatively impacted due to the lack of anadromous fish upstream of these projects. New technology exists that can effectively pass salmon across both of these dams, without significantly impacting the current operations and benefits these dams provide.