

Jane Wilcox

I am writing today to support the highest level of protection for Washington State's first Outstanding Resource Waters - the Green River. As the climate warms and the population and outdoor activities put stress on clean water resources that we all depend on, it is important for us all to speak out for the best use of pristine waters. As a Portlander who loves the hiking and camping opportunities that western Washington offers, I urge the Ecology Dept to protect the Green River for everyone.