

Alana Louise Lyons

I am in strong support of protecting these vital Washington waters under these designations. Our sparse, threatened Steelhead and Chinook should serve as proof that these waters must be protected with haste.

Please ensure a positive future to not only maintain responsible recreational opportunities, but most importantly, for OUR native fish so that they may have a fighting chance to prosper – so that our future generations can have opportunities to witness the pure magic of wild salmon runs, the thundering sound of a jumping King, and the rush of having a steelhead at the end of your line.

The Skagit is the only river system in Washington that supports all 5 salmon species, and is a river that runs deep in my heart.