

Pete Franett

Marla,

I am opposed to adding additional environmental protections to the Green River near Spirit Lake and to the other waters listed in The Longview Daily News September 24 article "Pristine Waterway ..."

There were just two billion people on earth when my parents were born ca 1920. There are now eight billion. We need food, water, housing, jobs, and that requires land. We can't keep taking land out of production. The more land we take out of production the more we drive up the cost of what remains making life's necessities unaffordable for many.

Sincerely,

Pete Franett
