

Niki Vogt

Please protect these special and unique waterways. Washington state is so fortunate to even have waterways to protect. The Green offers world class whitewater in convenient proximity to Seattle, and provides outstanding recreation opportunities. Washington state should play a leading role in waterway protection, and show other states how it should be done.