

Charles DeCosta

I only see where these new rules infringe on my property rights and restrict what I can do on my property and I have no reimbursement for you taking away my use of my property as I see fit, thus you are violating my right under the US constitution. This in no way complies with the federal law of water use management intent on restrictions. I find your new proposals highly insulting, and you keep passing laws restricting what us citizens can do because you can. That is repulsive and obviously communist in nature. How sad. You also restrict small business, like farming from utilizing their land as they see fit for small farming and agriculture purposes.
