

Emily Wing

I STRONGLY oppose the development of a natural gas-to-menthol production plant. Our planet is on the very brink of environmental collapse, as we have felt keenly these past few weeks in Seattle. It is long past time to move on from harmful and polluting energies and invest in the future of green energy. The climate crisis will not only decimate our economy, our national security, but our very lives. It is no longer a "children's and grandchildren's" problem. It is all of our problem. Right now. No plant, do the right thing, for all of us.