Hello this is Tom, I'm a resident of Cowlitz County, this will displace globally tons of gas of greenhouse emissions. On top of it it will mitigate for everything that happens in this state. I think it is important when we listen to the arguments in favor and against this project. That we come not from a place of not in my backyard but we are one part of a global community. What we are experiencing this week is a direct and even if you get all the greenhouse gas emissions in the state down to 0 we would be impacted by the global markets. That is not to say we should not do our part in Washington state. Northwest innovation is doing its part. But I think we need to realize we are all consumers of materials. Far beyond just plastic and I think that Northwest innovation works should be commended. For the efforts they made around mitigation in the state. And I think the department and the support is thorough, rigorous and comprehensive. In it comes to its analysis of the global markets and the displacement theories underlying report. Thank you so much.
