

Ken White

As a resident in Kalama, I have concerns over the true environmental impact of this plant. I see very little information on the increase ship and car traffic that would also come with this construction nor do I see it having a true long term benefit by producing product that will continue to pollute the environment for years to come. The plant is bad enough, it's products are even worse.