

Phillip Norman

Export of methanol is just another scheme to profit from thieving destruction of land owned by no one. The profit is mainly to a few greedy people, leveraging stolen wealth, not to average persons innocently buying related investment funds. It is all just greed in action. It is not about supply of energy demands. It is about push of spoils converted for greater returns in Asia. It is about enabling jobs that the greedy exported elsewhere. It is not at all about local jobs or the good of ordinary people anywhere.