I absolutely oppose building the world's largest methanol refinery here in Kalama. The climate crisis is getting worse every year. I don't see how anyone could be in favor of adding millions of tons of greenhouse gases to the atmosphere every year, not to mention the other pollutants this refinery would create. For the sake of all of us in Kalama, Washington, America, and the planet, do not allow this facility to be built. We all know the motivation for building the refinery is the greed of a limited number of people here and in China. It's time to be realistic about the climate crisis and put a stop to building monsters like the methanol refinery.
