

Claire Butler

After enduring days of the worst air quality measurements in the world due to west coast wildfires, I cannot imagine a more ill-timed proposal for further deterioration of our shared air quality. Dept of Ecology needs to examine its priorities, at a time of particularly poor timing in the midst of a pandemic that compromises lung function. The trajectory has been increased compromise of air quality on the West Coast. Do not add to this health risk, please.