

Shari Goss

In this time of crisis the last thing we need for the planet is more greenhouse gas emissions. It is insane to even consider building a methanol production plant and storage facility. Science has spoken. Mother Earth has spoken through uncontrolled fires and hurricanes. I can only hope we learn before it is too late for our children.