

Sydney Brahmavar

The idea that a methanol plant is being considered in the "progressive" state of Washington is abhorrent. At a time when we need to be forward thinking and stop destroying our planet with disastrous greenhouses gases, the environmental impacts of this decision clearly are not being considered. No new fossil fuel infrastructure in our state, stop destroying our state and planet by building fossil fuel infrastructure. As a state we need to reduce our emissions and LEAD in green tech and infrastructure, no invest in a dying industry that we know is destroying our planet and exacerbating the fires in our state.