

Dr. Candace Gossen

I have lived in Colorado the last 4 years in Medical School and with more than 50,000 wells surrounding the city its air and water quality is in sickening levels. I have even longer worked on environmental sustainability issues in seeing flammable water and the killing of species within polluted water systems. This eventually trickles down to human health. Be wise. Do not put this risk into the nature system that will stay around forever beyond our generation.
