

Jeanne Poirier

Have heard of this project - and while it sounds good as an energy project initially, if I'm not mistaken - this project is being opposed by tribes as it impacts their lands and territories. Water may not be pipelines - but we cannot continue to deface and destroy sacred land for our consumption and comfort. I put any weight of my voice in this public comment period behind the natives who speak against this project.