

Derek Benedict

I strongly prefer that we dismantle dams instead of building new ones. And as long as we're phasing out dams, maybe we could create channels that would funnel excess water during storms into retention ponds or lakes.

Our focus truly has to be on building a solar and wind-based infrastructure.