

Scott White

It is imperative that we not put human needs above the needs of our environment and am opposed to altering the environment in a way which may and will cause irreparable damage.