I grew up in Washington and still love to come up and fish for salmon. Despite the state's best intentions salmon populations and river conservation in general have always taken a back seat. Current knowledge tells us dams are not the solution. I donate to Wild Salmon Center as I believe this organization has the best current science and plans for effective river restoration and salmonid enhancement. I do not believe current plans for a dam on the Chehalis are the best option for flood control and would like to see a more comprehensive plan developed to provide flood control and river restoration.
