

Alice Hendrix

In an age when humans have begun to learn that dams are often more destructive than helpful, it is odd to see this project back on the scene. Dams are now being torn down to restore the damage they have done. Don't waste limited public funds for a short-term unnecessary blight on the land.