

Wendy Secrist

I am against this project. It would be a big step backwards in restoring critical habitats in Washington for Chinook salmon and the industries, tribes, and ecosystems that depend on them. It would be disastrous for the critically endangered Southern Resident orcas that eat Chinook salmon. We should be removing dams, not putting up new ones. I support the alternative proposals that help mitigate floods in a more natural, less ecologically damaging way. This would be a big expensive project that only causes more damage, and I don't want to pay for habitat destruction with my taxes.