

John Robinson

Any possible positive impact of flood control will be far outweighed by the damage to the environment and specifically to wild salmon