

Michael Rourke

This is an expensive ecological disaster waiting to happen. We should be looking at natural flood mitigation to protect homes and businesses rather than another costly, taxpayer funded project. These dams benefit power companies but also destroy important environmental habitat, including all important salmon runs. Under no circumstances do I want my hard earned money going to such an outdated and ill advised project.