

Austin DeBolt

Acknowledge the real harm flooding causes to habitat through sediment buildup and surface pollutants

Recognize that limited, temporary water retention during rare flood events has minimal impact on habitat, streamflows, or water temperature

Value how flood control supports human well-being, affordability, and the long-term, reliable use of land throughout the Chehalis Basin