

Eric Nylan

Having lived in Washington state and being a frequent visitor I believe the construction of a Chehalis dam is shortsighted.

There are better approaches that are more sustainable such as improved land-use planning, floodplain restoration, and building localized protective infrastructure. The risk to salmon populations are already too high as well as reductions of wetlands in this dam proposal.