

Scott White

No Damn Dams.

Across the country communities are taking steps to remove dams and return rivers and waterways to a more natural and environmentally friendly state and it is sad that it is being considered to dam a river to fix a problem which is a result of human activity. No new dams.